Electronic submission of manuscript to Pakistan Journal of Radiology (PJR) requires a sequence of steps to be followed online through website.¹ Authors, who are unfamiliar with electronic submission, find these steps sometimes confusing; and as a result they end up with unsuccessful attempts of submission. To facilitate authors in the process of submission, PJR editorial committee has decided to work on help documentation and this article is the resultant publication for authors. This article explains all steps necessary for a successful submission to PJR online. It also guides on how to keep track of articles submitted for possible scientific publication in PJR.

The intended readers of this tutorial are authors who want to submit articles to PJR for peer-review and possible publication.
